Leadership Praxis: “Whatever you have learned or received or heard from me, or seen in me – put into practice” (Phil. 4:9).
General Description

This course will focus on the new challenges, which the Body of Christ faces in the new reality of religious life and specifically in the context of Pentecostalism, which offers great opportunities and vast challenges. We learn from the past and the present in order to build a bridge into the future. We either prepare to succeed or we prepare to fail. Failure should not be an option when dealing with eternal matters. This course will utilize lectures via power point presentations, special reading material for some of the focus groups discussion and films to be analyzed via focus group discussions.

I. Objectives

A. To become more aware and sensitive to the impact of trans-nationals, diaspora and co-mingling of people groups (races), which are creating a new global context of ministry, which deals with multi-racial, multi-cultural and multi-religious matters.

B. To revisit the value of epistemology, which deals with the nature and origin of how we acquire knowledge; this will be addressed in terms of the cognitive screen (filters) and the task of learning, unlearning and relearning.

C. In the process of the course, we will endeavor to assist the students in developing greater biblical, theological and ethical reflections on some critical issues such as postmodernism.

D. The course will assist the student to examine the ontological aspect of humankind, which deals with the nature of being. A basic question with ontological dimensions is what type of minister/leader do I desire to be? And what type of church do I desire to develop?

E. The course will deal with some aspects of ministerial praxis and the spiritual gifts in the developing of an Ecclesial ministry. This dimension will deal with the corporate Body of Christ and the individual ministry.

Course Competencies

A. Have a greater understanding of the new global context of ministry, which will include analyzing the socio-political and religious context of Pentecostal leadership and how to address the needs of trans-generational constituency.

B. To evaluate the impact of a practical leadership theology in developing a gifted ministry praxis of the Fruit of the Spirit and the Gifts of the Spirit.

C. To develop discernment in dealing with the primary aspect of eternal ministries versus material matters, which will perish in the passing of time.
II. Required texts: These Books Are Required Reading for This Course.

Methodology:

A. Common reading: All required books should be read before the class begins. A reading log form is included in this syllabus for each student to return to the professor relative to how much he has read of the required books. This reading log is to be turned in the first day of class. Those who do not read all the required books before the first day of class will receive a half grade drop in their final grade.

B. Book reviews: Each student is to provide a two-page analysis per book for each of the five books. Select at least one prime theme in each book, which you believe will be helpful in your leadership ministry. Each book analysis should contain at least 6 references of the respective book. All book reviews are to be turned in on the first day of class. Those who turn in reviews late will receive a half grade drop.

C. The final paper: The Final paper is an academic paper, not a sermon and not a testimony. The final paper should be eight (8) pages excluding the front page, content page, end notes, and the bibliography. The final paper should be double spaced. The paper should reflect the respective book, class lectures, film presentation, and your past and present ministry experience. You are to engage the book, agreeing or disagreeing, and stating the reason for your position. The student should combine academic and practical views in his or her final paper. The final paper should contain no less than twenty references. The theme for the final paper will have to be approved by the professor.

Transmission of Final Paper: The final paper should be sent by e-mail to Dr. Hector Ortiz, hortiz@cogop.org. The due date for the final work is June 25, 2012.

Academic Honesty: Students are on their honor to complete assignments with integrity. Relative to the entire course of study, it must be stressed that cheating and plagiarism (using the intellectual property [works] of others without giving proper citation credit, leaving the impression that it is your own work) are not acceptable.
Student Responsibility: The syllabus is being sent well in advance of the class. Students have plenty of time to obtain their books and complete the reading assignments and book reviews that are due upon arrival the first day of class. Those who do not complete these assignments and turn them in by the due date will receive a ½ grade reduction in their final grade. If both the reading assignments and the book reviews are late, it will result in a full letter-grade reduction.

Due Date for Final Work: June 25, 2012

Intensive-Residence

A. Participate in class discussions relative to the professor’s lectures.

B. During the residency period, there will be films, which will be used, as well as, some special readings to engage some case studies relative to some leadership dimensions.

C. In order to facilitate discussion, we will use focus groups. Each focus group will analyze certain aspects of leadership connected to the film and readings. Also, each focus group will report their views in order to deal with the critical aspect of the respective case studies in order to interact with the other students in a meaningful discussion.
