Course Description

This course is an exegetical study of the Greek text of the Gospel of Matthew with special attention to its overall narrative structure, language, and theology. A typical session will include lecture, translation, and student-led discussions. Some attention will be given to Matthew’s relationship with the other Gospels, but the primary focus of this course will be what the Evangelist was inspired to write. Each student will be expected to employ all the exegetical tools at their disposal to better interpret the original intent of the Gospel. Finally, significant portions of each class will be devoted to discussing what our exegesis means for the church, for discipleship, for obedience of faith, for ministering etc. In other words the exegesis of Matthew (or any Biblical text) is never the end in itself, but is the essential preparatory step necessary for proclaiming the truth revealed in God’s Word.

Objectives

At the end of the course, students should be able to:
1. Articulate the contemporary issues surrounding the interpretation of Matthew, especially the views of Turner, Osborne, and Pennington. (Art 1-2 of GCTS Mission)
3. Translate into accurate and idiomatic English any portion of Matthew. (Art 1-2)
4. Deeply examine and consider a particular passage, utilizing all the appropriate exegetical methods. (Art 1-2 of GCTS Mission)
5. Articulate personal conclusions based on sound exegesis regarding the overarching message and purpose of the Gospel whole as well as individual sections. (Art 1-3)
6. Consider the importance of this Gospel to one’s faith and understanding of who Christ is. (Art 3-6 of GCT Mission)
7. Consider how the Gospel of Matthew informs our understanding of salvation, the church, our ministry, discipleship, etc. (Art 3-6 of GCTS Mission)
Texts

REQUIRED

  NOTE: Make sure it is the paperback from Baker and not the hardback (which is much more expensive).

  o NOTE: Email the professor no later than June 22 informing him of your selection.

*Other readings may be assigned

Requirements

1. A Greek Competency Quiz is required of every student who has gone more than a year from taking Greek 2 or Greek exegesis class. The quiz is to be coordinated with the Registration office. See Instructor if this applies to you.

2. You will be expected to be prepared each day to translate and discuss the Greek “Topic” text assigned for that day. A Grammatical Analysis of the Greek New Testament by Max Zerwick and Mary Grosvenor (Rome: Pontificio Istituto Biblico, 1993) is a useful resource. Everyone is expected to contribute, and to contribute cordially. Each student will be reading the Greek, translating, and discussing every class.

3. You will be expected to read the English text also assigned for that day.
4. You are to read the relevant sections in Osborne and your second commentary for the “topic” text. You are to read from only one commentary the “non-topic” texts assigned.

5. Attendance at every class is expected. Failure to attend class will impact your final grade. If you do not participate in class – your final grade may be lowered up to a whole grade. (Besides, who wants to miss class? How often will you get a chance to meet weekly with your peers and drink deeply from the Gospel of Matthew?)

6. You are to write an Exegesis Paper of 4000-5000 words (strictly enforced) in which you systematically analyze a complete passage of the Greek text in the Gospel of Matthew. Dr. Ciampa provides some excellent guidance regarding writing sound exegesis papers at http://www.viceregency.com.

   a. Your exegesis paper must be written on a passage from the following chapters in Matthew: 12, 14, 17, 20-23, 25-27.
   b. This paper should employ all relevant exegetical methods developed in “Interpreting the New Testament” (original text, section boundaries, historical background, literary background, grammar, syntax, semantic/discourse analysis, narrative criticism, etc.). Part of your evaluation not only will be how you employed your method, but which methods you chose to use. Please note – not every method will provide the same level of insight to every passage, and some may be hardly useful to a particular passage.
      i. N.B. Only discuss author, audience, synoptic relationships, and textual critical matters if they are relevant to your argument (and each of these may be critically important).
   c. This paper should reflect knowledge of the scholarly secondary literature (commentaries, peer-reviewed articles and chapters, etc.), but the weight of your paper should be directed towards your findings and not simply a restatement of the conclusions of others. Be sure to read your sources carefully and cite his/her opinion, not simply an opinion they are discussing. This is especially true for commentaries where multiple opinions are discussed. Try to cite the best representatives of certain arguments. (For example, if Harry, Hermione, and Ron all cite Severus regarding a certain view – then it makes the most sense for you to follow suit and use Severus as the best representative for that point.)
      i. NOTE: DO NOT PLAGARIZE! ALL ACTS OF PLAGARISM WILL BE FULLY PURSUED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GCTS POLICIES. NO EXCUSES.
      ii. Limit your use of direct quotations. A good rule of thumb regarding quotations – only use them if the author said something much better, and more completely, then anyone else (including yourself).
   d. Your paper should be free of grammatical and syntax errors. Grammar mistakes overly burden the reading of your paper, and substantial mistakes can make the paper unreadable. Any writing submitted for critique and evaluation should not have more than five grammatical mistakes. Part of your evaluation will include your grammar and syntax. Points will be deducted for grammatical mistakes. A paper that is teeming with grammatical errors will be returned and a rewrite will be required. In the event that a rewrite is required, there will be an automatic one-grade penalty. I strongly recommend that you have someone read your work with an eye towards grammar and syntax.

e. You are to follow SBL format or Chicago Style Format. (Format is taken very seriously – attention to form often indicates that the paper was taken seriously. A poorly written and poorly formatted paper will substantively harm a good idea.) Also – since you will give the full bibliographic information the first time you cite a text in the footnotes, you do not need to provide a bibliography.

f. The paper is to be double-spaced, 12-pt font, with 1 in. margins. If possible, try to use a Unicode font.

g. Your paper is to be divided into the following elements (strictly enforced):
   i. Translation: This should be in accurate and idiomatic English. It should be a “functional/dynamic equivalent” translation (in other words, not a paraphrase or something overly formal). Consider it to be a translation that would be useful for teaching and preaching in a church setting with newcomers, new believers, visitors, and old salts of the faith. It should reflect and anticipate the various exegetical decisions you made on your passage. (NOT PART OF WORD COUNT)

   ii. Commentary: This section should include the following:
      1. Introduction. No more than one page introducing the passage, the relationship of the passage to the broader context, and the major issues to be discussed.
      2. Body. Use a verse-by-verse approach (some flexibility if the versification overly disrupts your argument). Here is where you will exhibit your exegesis, interact with representative secondary sources, etc.
      3. Summary. No more than one or two paragraphs summarizing the argument of the passage.

   iii. Theological Reflection. One-two pages identifying the main theological point and the relevance of the passage to the life of the believer and the practice of the church. This section ideally would be the beginnings of a message you would deliver on this text (which is why we do exegesis!). This is not a summary. I take this section very seriously. Some key questions you may choose to consider are:
      a. What does this passage say about Jesus?
      b. What does this passage say about discipleship?
      c. What does this passage speak against?

   iv. Appendix. Include here any relevant diagrams. These can take different forms (Semantic Structure/Discourse, Sentence Flow/Diagrams, Grammar, Text Critical, etc.,) but they should naturally coincide with the exegetical and translational decisions. (NOT PART OF WORD COUNT)

1. This is not the place to give me an extended discussion on some matter that you wanted to say, but couldn’t make it fit in the commentary.

v. Word Count: Please give the word count of the paper (including footnotes). Your word count does not include: a) Appendices; b) Translation; c) Bibliographic information; and d) Title and subtitle headings. NOTE: I stop reading once the word count is reached and your paper will be evaluated accordingly. For example, if you reach the word count during your commentary section – your evaluation will consider the “Theological Reflection” as having been omitted from your paper.

h. The paper is due by Sept 1, 2012:

i. You are to tell the Instructor the chapter from which you will be exegesis by the July class meeting. Once notified, the student is committed. If a student does not choose a chapter, one will be assigned to him/her.

ii. The paper is to be emailed in both .pdf and Word (or Pages) format.

i. LATE PAPERS WILL RECEIVE A ZERO. ANY STUDENT WHO DOES NOT SUBMIT AN EXEGESIS PAPER WILL FAIL THE COURSE.

7. You are to complete a Translation Notebook on Matt 5-7, 13, 16 and 18. The notebook is to take the following format and include the following elements:

a. Each verse should be its own entry, unless the versification disrupts the natural thought.

b. Translations: Cut and paste two or three representative translations of verses when (and only when) there are significant differences in the translations. You are encouraged to use the same translations throughout your notebook. Use from a spectrum of formal and functional/dynamic equivalent. Good options include (but are not limited to) NLT, TNIV, ESV, NRSV, NIV, NRSV. Note, you do not need to offer these English translations for every verse, but only those that reflect significant choices.

c. Provide your own working translation with analysis.

d. Using footnotes, your analysis should include:

   i. Explain forms that seem unusual or warrant explanation

   ii. Identify and Evaluate the following: relationships that offer differing meanings (types of dative, genitive, etc.); participial and infinitive functions (See Daniel Wallace, Greek Grammar Beyond the Basics); transitional markers (conjunctions, etc.), types of conditional statements, and other relevant grammatical/syntactical observations
iii. Comment on substantial lexical data: Certain terms may require brief comment regarding meaning.
   1. Offer your conclusions regarding the best sense of the term and the most likely sources for understanding of the term.
   2. (N.B. You do not need to do an exhaustive study, rather identify a few passages or places that you feel best explain the author’s use of the term.)

e. The Translation Notebook is due by our final August class meeting.
   i. Late Notebooks will receive a two-grade penalty. All Late Notebooks must be submitted by Sept 1, 2012.
   ii. Like the exegesis paper ~ the “Notebook” is to be emailed to the professor in both .pdf and Word (or Pages) form.

8. You are to write a Devotional Study of Sermon on the Mount (Matt 5-7).
   a. Identify the individual sections/passages of the sermon. (Feel free to follow Osborne’s division.)
   b. Create brief devotional entries (no more than one-two page per entry) for each section.
   c. These sections should include:
      i. Verse that best represents the main idea of the passage
      ii. A brief discussion on the main idea of the passage
      iii. An illustration of the idea
      iv. An exhortation/application built upon the main idea.
   d. Do not consult any resources (especially other devotionals on the Sermon on the Mount). This is to be entirely based on your exegesis and your prayerful consideration of the sermon.
   e. This assignment is due on Aug 25, 2012. Like the Exegesis Paper – you are to email me two copies.
      i. A late “Devotional Study” will result in a two-grade penalty.
      ii. Late “Devotional Studies” are due by Sept 1, 2012.

9. NOTE: It is advised (and expected) that you are working on all the assignments throughout the course.

10. You are to write a Book Review of Pennington’s Heaven and Earth in the Gospel of Matthew. The review should be:
    a. Between 1000-1500 words (strictly enforced).
    b. Put the full bibliographic citation at the top.
    c. The review is a critical exposition of the text. The reviewer should tell the reader what the book says including: main argument of the book, main contribution to the field, scope of the work, author’s method and approach, weaknesses, strengths, implications, etc.
    d. The review should enable a reader to decide whether or not to read the book.
e. Feel free to read critical reviews of other biblical studies books to get a better sense of form and function, but under no circumstances are you to consult other reviews (of any sort) of Pennington’s book.

f. The Book Review is due by the July Class Meeting
   - i. Reviews are to be emailed (.pdf and Word (or Pages) format
   - ii. Late Reviews will receive a automatic two-grade deduction
   - iii. Late Reviews are due by the August class meeting.

A Brief Word Regarding Translations for Class

The purpose of this course is not simply to teach Greek grammar but to interpret the New Testament from the Greek text. It is assumed that each student prior to class session will have translated the assigned text. Students will be called upon each class to translate and field questions regarding the assigned text. When we are discussing translations in class it is to be done with a “hard copy” of the Greek New Testament – not an electronic copy. NO EXCEPTIONS. Failure to translate the assigned text (or at least to make a serious attempt) before class renders you ill prepared to sufficiently contribute. On those occasions where “life happens” and you must choose between doing all the assigned reading or doing your translation work, the latter should always take precedence (with the assumption you will “catch up” on your reading at the first possibility).

In the event that you are unable to translate all of the assigned text for the day, you are to notify the instructor before class of how much you did translate. If you fail to show up for class, it will be assumed that you did zero translation for that day. (If you did do some translation in preparation but were unable to make the class – please email me how much of the text you did translate). Naturally a failure to translate will impact your participation evaluation.

The reward of continually translating occurs in the effort. Therefore do not feel the necessity for a perfectly dynamic translation. This is part of what the class discussion is to accomplish. Also resist the temptation to do your translating work with contemporary Bible or computer software on hand. What good does it do to show that you can “copy well” or move your computer mouse? I encourage you use a lexicon and grammar and find your own translating mind.

A Brief Note on Intellectual Property Rights

No audio or video recordings are allowed. Furthermore no publication (audio, video, written) or live transmission of classroom proceedings will be permitted. Any requests for such privileges must be made in writing and must receive written approval from the instructor.

A Brief Note Regarding Internet Usage

Please do not access the internet (email, apps, websites, etc.) during class. This can be extremely distracting to all parties – and quite frankly it is unbecoming to do so. Exceptions may be made on occasion.

Matthew Summer ~ This course is a demanding course, even more so when intensified in a Summer Study program. Each weekend there will be close to 120-150 verses of Greek to be prepared for translation discussion. Please be sure to be doing some translation work every day. Simply translating five-ten verses every day will make this process so much easier for you.

A Final Note

It is my prayer that through this study of Matthew the Holy Spirit will guide your mind and illumine your heart, that your love will abound more and more in knowledge and deep insight, so that you may be able discern the more excellent matter and may be pure and blameless for the day of Christ (Phil 1:9-11). Let us come together in full humility, full of joy, crying out in prayer that our Sovereign Almighty might be pleased to reveal Himself to us in the study of His Holy Word.
