Gordon-Conwell Faculty and Staff Endorsements

Dr. Gerry Wheaton, Assistant Professor of New Testament (Charlotte Campus)

"I am extremely enthusiastic about the prospect of partnering with the other institutions associated with the Digital Theological Library. I have spent several hours perusing their holdings and have been very impressed with the resources that would be available to our students. The addition of digital access to their holdings will be greatly beneficial forGordon-Conwell students in the New Testament exegesis track."

Dr. Catherine McDowell, Associate Professor of Old Testament (Charlotte Campus)

"It's critical that students in Digital Live courses have adequate library resources, especially in our exegesis courses. In fact, I considered it the most significant obstacle in teaching exegesis at such a distance. Thus, I was especially delighted when Matt Wasielewski introduced me to the Digital Theological Library. Problem solved! I heartily endorse –Gordon-Conwell's participation."

Scott Poblenz, Dean of Digital Education and Registrar

"Joining the Digital Theological Library will provide distance students access to the resources of a robust theological library and allow Gordon-Conwell to develop and grow our distance education programs. The best part is, joining the DTL won't just benefit our distance students; it would benefit every student and faculty member at every campus, whether they are studying from across the globe or sitting right in one of our library buildings."

Accessing Gordon-Conwell and DTL Library Resources

As Gordon-Conwell brings DTL online, current GCTS students, faculty and staff will have access to GCTS and DTL digital resources in a variety of ways. The use cases below are a guide for the best ways to find the resources you need. Note: Alumni will not have access to DTL due to licensing restrictions, but alumni will continue to have access to select content through the Alumni Portal.

Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary Search Tools

Gordon-Conwell users can search for GCTS and DTL digital resources through library tools you currently use.

Benefit: Search results yield printed titles held by GCTS campus libraries AND digital items.

GCTS Course Recommendations

Professors can provide links directly to DTL resources in course syllabi, reading lists and course management sites.
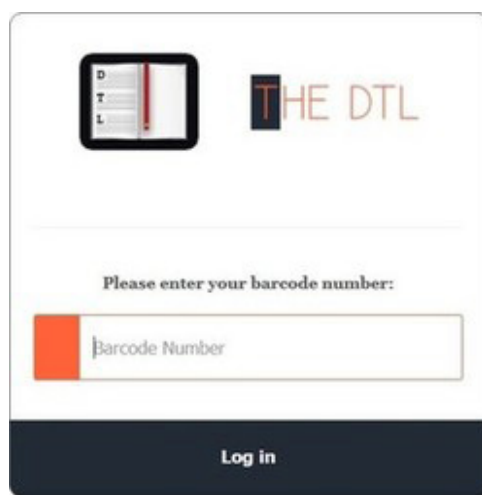

Login Instructions

Gordon-Conwell libraries and DTL use EZproxy to authenticate users. The DTL system will ask you for your barcode number. The GCTS equivalent is your student, faculty or staff ID number. To find your ID number, please follow the appropriate instructions below or visit the Access Instructions page:

For Students

Gordon-Conwell Student IDs serve as DTL user barcodes.

- Student ID's can be retrieved securely from the CAMS Student Portal or by contacting your GCTS campus registration office.

For Faculty

Gordon-Conwell Faculty IDs serve as DTL user barcodes.

- Faculty IDs can be obtained securely by clicking 'Edit Profile' on the CAMS Faculty Portal.
- Faculty with an alternate ID starting with "1" or "2" may also use this as their barcode.

For Staff & Employee

Gordon-Conwell Employee IDs serve as DTL user barcodes.

- Employee IDs can be obtained securely from the GCTS Employee Directory.
- After logging into the directory, enter your last name then hit 'Enter' on your keyboard.
- Click the green icon to view your Employee ID.
- Staff and employees with an alternate ID starting with "1" or "2" may also use this as their barcode.
