

Kirsten Heacock Sanders

Education

Ph.D. Theological Studies, Emory University, Atlanta, GA.	2014
M.T.S. The Divinity School, Duke University, Durham, NC.	2007
B.A. in History and Biblical Studies, Gordon College, Wenham, MA.	2005

Professional Presentations and Publications

- “Aflame But Not Consumed: Nestorius and the Person of Christ.”
Revisions accepted, Scottish Journal of Theology.
Forthcoming.
- “On the Maleness of Christ: Justinian and Christological Particularity.”
In progress.
- “Trinitarian Exegesis and Trouble Texts: A Case Study in Judges.”
Society for the Study of Theology, Warwick, UK.
April 2019
November 2015
- “What Seeing Jesus Offers for the Doctrine of Impassibility”
American Academy of Religion, Systematic Theology Group,
Atlanta, GA.
- “Penance as Imitatio Christi: Sin and Discipleship in the Life of Angela of Foligno” American Academy of Religion, Mysticism Group. Presented in absentia.
November 2007

Teaching Experience and Areas of Expertise

- Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary
Fall 2015- Present
- Courses in Systematic Theology, Christology, Women and the Church, The Doctrine of Sin and The Problem of Evil

Interests and Areas of Expertise

- Systematic Theology: particularly Christology and Hamartiology
- Feminist and Womanist Theology and Contextual Theology
- Theology and Disability