Directions: ONLY For Current F-1 Students in the U.S.

The SEVIS record “Transfer-In” process is only necessary for students who need to “transfer” their Form I-20/SEVIS record from one institution to Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary OR from one GCTS campus to another GCTS campus.

Only complete this form if you are currently in F-1 visa status with another school or institution (or, if you are in your 60-day grace period following your I-20 program end date). This form must be completed and returned to Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary before an I-20 can be issued. It is used to ensure that your visa status has been maintained as required by law.

If you are seeking a SEVIS record “Transfer-In” to Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary,

1. The student completes Part 1 of this form.
2. The student gives this form to their current International Student Advisor, Designated School Official (DSO) to complete Part 2.
3. The student should receive the completed form back from the Advisor, and then the student sends the completed form to Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary via email to internationaloffice@gordonconwell.edu

More Information about SEVIS Record Transfer

For the most up to date transfer information, visit these websites:

From US Immigration and Customs Enforcement: <https://www.ice.gov/sevis/f1-transfers>

Understanding the F-1 Student Transfer Process: F-1 students already in the U.S. are permitted to transfer to another SEVP-approved institution. Transfer students must complete the necessary I-20 Certificate of Eligibility application process at the transfer-in school and notify their current institution (or transfer-out school) of their intent to transfer. After the transfer-out date, the student's record will be transferred electronically through the federal database called the Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (or SEVIS). Remember, however, that your SEVIS record can only be transferred to one school, so you must plan carefully and decide which school you will attend before requesting a transfer. Here are some definitions of terms:

- Transfer: The electronic transfer of your SEVIS record (Form I-20) from one certified school to another.
- Transfer-out school: The school you currently attend and plan to leave.
- Transfer-in school: The school to which you are planning to transfer and begin studies.
- Transfer release date: The date on which your SEVIS record is made available to the transfer-in school for update and can no longer be amended by the transfer-out school. This date is set in SEVIS by the transfer-out school.
- Program start date: The date your program of study at the transfer-in school begins.
- Initial admission: The first admission to the United States by an F-1 student using a given SEVIS ID number.
- Designated School Official (DSO): This is typically your international student advisor. Manages and updates your SEVIS record and I-20.

How long do I have to transfer? When you transfer to another institution, there is a 5-month limit to the transfer eligibility requirement. This means you must begin classes at the transfer school within 5 months of transferring out of your previous school or within 5 months of the program completion date on your I-20 from your previous school, whichever is earlier. You may lawfully remain in the U.S. during this time. Students may be ineligible for transfer within the U.S. because of "the 5-month rule" that prohibits an F-1 student from being outside the U.S. for 5 months or more, consecutively. All transfer-in students are required to report to the transfer-in school within 15 days of the program start date listed on the new I-20.

How do I start the transfer process? Complete this form, with the help of your current school's international student advisor (DSO). This form will notify your current school of where to release your SEVIS record/I-20 and will establish a line of communication between the two schools. Once the transfer-out school releases your SEVIS record on a date determined by you and/or your DSO, the transfer-in school will receive your record and begin processing your request for a new I-20 and student record. You must also complete and submit the Application for the I-20. After you request to transfer-out, your current school will update your record in SEVIS as a "transfer out" request and indicate the school to which you intend to transfer along with a release date. Your transfer-out school will retain control over your record until you complete the current term and/or reach the release date, unless directed otherwise by you or your school.

What if I decide not to transfer, or to transfer to another school? At your request, your transfer-out school may cancel your request prior to the release date. After the release date specified by on your transfer request form, however, the transfer-in school will be granted full access to your SEVIS record and then becomes responsible for maintaining your record. This means if you decide not to transfer to that school, you will need to contact the DSO at that school to request transfer to another school. Your initial transfer-out school will no longer have any access to your SEVIS record and has no responsibility to maintain your record. At this point, it is your responsibility to maintain your status through your transfer-in school, or whichever school currently has your record.

Can I travel internationally between transfers? Travel outside the U.S. is subject to some restriction. When you are in the 5-month period between schools, you must consult DSOs at both schools to ensure you have everything you need to re-enter the U.S. Generally, you are required by U.S. immigration law to have an endorsed I-20 from the school that holds your active or initial record at the time you attempt to enter the U.S. If for some reason your SEVIS record is in Terminated status, you should obtain a new I-20 from the transfer-in school and return to attend that school within 15 days of the program start date on the new I-20.

Do I need to receive a new F-1 visa, stamped in my passport? As long as you have followed the proper transfer procedures, you will be able to use your current, unexpired visa to re-enter the U.S., even though it has your previous school's name printed on it.

What if I have already graduated and/or reached the completion date on my I-20? F-1 Students have a 60-day grace period after their program completion date (indicated on line 5 of their most recent I-20). During this grace period, you may request to transfer to another school, assuming you have lawfully maintained status and completed the requirements for enrolling at the transfer-in school in time to complete the necessary procedures for transferring your SEVIS record. If you are authorized for OPT, you can request transfer during your OPT period and within the 60-day grace period following your OPT expiration date.
